Horror show for Stones in Bartlett's 1000th game

WEALDSTONE manager Gordon Bartlett's 1000th game in charge turned into a nightmare after Waltham Abbey spoiled the party.

The Stones were seemingly in charge after goals from Mark E'Beyer and James Gray gave them a 2-0 lead at the St George's Stadium on Saturday. But a second-half capitulation saw the Ryman Premier's bottom club score four goals without reply to seal an unlikely 4-2 win.

Bartlett said: "It wasn't the way I wanted to celebrate 1000 games. I can't remember another game where we were 2-0 up and conceded four second-half goals. It was a new experience but not one I ever want to have again.

"We capitulated in the second half. We have been a bit fragile lately. Winning becomes a habit and at the moment it's the exact opposite for us.

"I went home very disappointed but I would have done regardless of whether it was my 432nd or 1000th game. I was very disappointed with our application in the second half."

The Stones extended their winless run this year to seven games after drawing 1-1 at Margate on Tuesday night.

Darren Locke marked his return to the side by netting his first league goal of the season. But the visitors were pegged back in the 75th minute and goalkeeper Sean Thomas was instrumental in preserving a point with several late saves.

Bartlett said: "We hit the woodwork in the last minute against Margate and these were going in early on in the season. We just have to ride the storm. We must come out of this mini slump quickly in order to build on the foundations."

The Stones received some unexpected news this week after they were reinstated into the Ryman League Cup despite losing 2-1 at Tonbridge Angels last week. Wealdstone are back in the competition because the home side played an ineligible player, Akwasi Edusei, but with so many fixtures to play and a spate of injuries Bartlett is far from happy.

"We don't particularly want to be back in it but we just have to take it on the chin and move on," the manager admitted.

"If you look at our league situation, our early success has meant we have paid a high price recently."

Wealdstone face a short trip to Hendon on Saturday before returning home to take on league-leaders Dartford on Tuesday night.

Day to forget: Stones boss Gordon Bartlett saw his side collapse on his 1000th game in charge on Saturday.

Borough sink Kingstonian at Earlsmead

HARROW BOROUGH manager David Howell insists his side have the confidence to reproduce the form which saw them defeat second-placed Kingstonian on Tuesday night.

Second-half efforts from Rocky Baptiste and Dwayne Clarke earned them a notable scalp despite goalkeeper Andray Baptiste's late sending off for handball outside the area.

It completed an excellent week for Boro after they came from behind, with goals from Baptiste and Dean Fenton, to win 2-1 at Billericay Town on Saturday.

Howell said: "It was one of our most pleasing displays. We did so well on Saturday but the problem we have had is with our consistency.

"Kingstonian have won seven and drawn two of their last ten so they've been in great form. But apart from an early shot they were never really in the game.

"The players have the confidence and they are well aware that it is just the belief in sustaining that week in week out.

"We want to do the best we can and we are beginning to believe we can maintain that consistent level of performance."

Boro have climbed up to 11th in the Ryman Premier and are only five points away from the play-off spots but Howell is refusing to take any notice of this.

He said: "The league position is false and if you pay attention to it then you are riding for a fall. It is of no consequence at the moment. All we want to do is strike up a run of form and the league table will take care of itself."

Boro face a testing week ahead starting with a home game on Saturday against Tooting and Mitcham United.
